And when they do know about the support, they will either run away or pretend they don't understand the problem. The first is the push notification about product updates. The second type of notification is the "Send Feedback" or the "Send Support Request" in the product name space. Whether they were e-mail notifications or voice alerts, my iPhone is reporting the same thing. I haven't been able to use it since I got here. I have had this "product" off and on for two years. I have called several times since March and they have not been able to figure it out. The only people that ever get back to me are the ones who have the job to "work the phone" and they have never been able to fix it. I don't know what the future holds for me but I do know I'm not having anything more to do with "Apple". My daughter has the same problem with her iPhone 4. All of a sudden yesterday all of her apps and messages are still there, but the others are gone. In addition she can't get into the app store because there is no connectivity. She has a service contract and pays $33 a month. We are looking for another one because I want to move on. There's something really wrong with the new versions of ios. I just installed iOS 8.1 on a new iPhone 6 and it's the same bug I had on my 5. The app icons don't show up. Hi. I have iOS 8.1.1 on iPhone 6. No upgrade. No new software. Not prompted or forced. I just noticed that there are no application icons on the home screen for apps that I used to have on the iPhone 5 running iOS 8. What's up with that? Thanks. 82157476af
